During this diet, you have to consume a very small proportion of carbohydrates. On a normal day, we can consume a lot of carbohydrates because of which we can function better. The carbohydrates present in our body are turned into glucose for better functioning of the brain and all the energy which our body requires while functioning or doing any physical activity is given by carbohydrates.

So during a keto diet when your body lacks carbohydrates, at that time your body needs something to function. So it requires fats to turn into glucose so that it can work and function properly. During that time, this product will help you function better and it will prepare your body to use fats. So, for this reason, this product's name has keto in it as it will help you during your keto diet.
